Update to our quarterly dashboard and new 'cross-audit' dashboard launched

We encourage NHS trust and Cancer Alliances to view the NNHLA interactive dashboards. These present performance indicators over a three-year time period at quarterly increments, allowing healthcare providers to monitor their performance at regular intervals and track their progress over time. This is currently limited to NHS trusts within England because the NNHLA receives Welsh data on an annual, rather than quarterly basis.

This month NATCAN is pleased to publish it's first 'cross-audit' data dashboards which focuses on data quality in the first instance.

Blood Cancer Awareness Month

We note our thanks to everyone who contributed and supported our Blood Cancer Awareness Month online activities during the month of September.

We are particularly grateful to our patient and public representatives who shared their experiences of the impact of a blood cancer diagnosis.
